TERCENTENARY SOUVENIRS

A commemorative medal has been issued by the Commission. The design, by Henry G. Kreis of Essex, modern in technique, shows a group of the founders of the colony, and on the reverse the transplanted grapevines of the Connecticut seal. The medal may be obtained from the Tercentenary Commission for one dollar.

An issue of 25,000 memorial half dollars, also designed by Mr. Kreis, featuring the historic Charter Oak, has been minted by the Federal Government. These coins may be obtained from the Hartford National Bank and Trust Company and other banks in the State for one dollar, plus postage when ordered by mail.

A special Tercentenary commemorative United States postage stamp was put on sale at the Hartford Post Office on April 26, and at other post offices throughout the State on the following day. The stamp shows the Charter Oak, is a rich lilac in color, and is the first commemorative of 1935.

Dinner service plates, in four designs and done in two color combinations, black and white or red and white, may be ordered through the Commission, at four dollars a set of four or ten dollars a dozen. The central designs, each rimmed by grapes and foliage entwining the names of colonial towns, show four historic buildings of Connecticut: the Old State House at Hartford, designed by Bullfinch; the second State House at New Haven, which was modeled after the Parthenon; the early Congregational church standing on Litchfield Common; and the former Wyllys Mansion of Hartford, with the Charter Oak in the foreground.

An Architectural Guide for Connecticut, dealing with the domestic, civic, and ecclesiastical building landmarks of the State, has been prepared by J. Frederick Kelly of New Haven. It has been published by the Yale University Press for the Commission and sells for fifty cents.

The Yale University Press has published for the Commission and has for sale more than 35 pamphlets concerned with phases of Connecticut life and history. These sell for twenty-five cents apiece, except double- or triple-size numbers, which are fifty and seventy-five cents, respectively, as listed on page 19.

Automobile markers, calling attention to the Tercentenary, attachable above or below registration plates, are on sale at twenty-five cents a pair at all offices of the Connecticut Department of Motor Vehicles and Information Bureaus.

An historical map with guide and illustrations by John Held, Jr., has been issued as a Tercentenary souvenir, and is for sale at the Information Bureaus for ten cents each.

Attractive souvenir post cards and snapshot packets of Connecticut scenes issued by the Connecticut Daughters of the American Revolution are available.

Post cards from photographs by Samuel Chamberlain, published by the Yale University Press in The American Scene series, now include Connecticut views of the Countryside, Early Meeting-houses, Historic Houses, Doorways, Taverns, and Public Buildings.

Souvenir Road Map of Connecticut with drawings by John Held, Jr., and historical data for sale at 10 cents a copy at Tercentenary Information Bureaus and elsewhere.
